Corporate philosophy

Nippon Sokki Co., Ltd. is a long-established trading company specializing in measuring instruments and electronic devices, founded over 100 years ago.

We strive to grow together with our customers with technology and services that meet their needs.

In order to "create a rich and healthy life," we contribute to society by providing safe and secure products and services, and by gaining customer satisfaction and trust.

greeting

Since our establishment in 1931, we have consistently followed our motto of "delivering superior measuring equipment in a timely manner" and have walked the path of becoming a specialized trading company that provides the latest measuring equipment and instrumentation systems in response to the requests and diverse needs of various industries.

In recent years, technological innovation has continued to evolve at a speed beyond our expectations, accelerating the transformation of industrial structure, the creation of diverse services, and the trend toward more comfortable products. Automated systems linked to computers are representative of mechatronics and are remarkable in terms of their performance, functionality, and operation. Among these, measuring instruments play an extremely important role, and we are confident that the products we handle, which utilize cutting-edge technology, can contribute to industry and society.

On our website, we have listed products that we can confidently recommend, such as new energy-related products, products that support manufacturing sites with IOT, and products from manufacturers that are committed to safety and security. We hope you will take a look at our website and look forward to your continued patronage and orders.
